10. Educational Aims of the programme

The MSc in Advancing Physiotherapy Practice will support physiotherapists in developing the capabilities needed to thrive in current global health and social care contexts and respond to complex and unpredictable situations in a proactive and innovative manner. The programme acknowledges the need for inter-professional working, and that some students wish to specialise in relation to areas of practice while others wish to generalise. The programme aims to facilitate career development tailored to individual students by providing the opportunity to follow clinical (for example, musculoskeletal, neurological, cardiorespiratory and paediatric) and non-clinical (for example, leadership and management,
